Introduction

What you will find in this report

This report contains the results of the 360-degree feedback collected from a combination of yourself, management, and peers. These results are presented in a variety of formats to help you identify your strengths, areas for development, and areas where your ratings may diverge from those of the individuals providing you feedback. Please recognize the time and effort your respondents put into providing you with this feedback, be open to their opinions, and be willing to use their feedback as a starting point for your learning and development.

Goals of the 360 Degree Feedback

1. Increased mindfulness
2. Greater awareness of the leadership and management competencies the company is seeking to develop
3. Greater clarity about strengths to build on and areas to improve
4. Improved goal-setting for personal and professional development
5. More frequent and open communication between yourself and others about what is working well and what needs to be improved
6. Increased comfort with seeking and receiving feedback
7. Increased comfort with giving feedback

Receiving Feedback

Hearing from others how they perceive you is challenging for everyone, especially if their perceptions are different from your own. Remember that their feedback is as much about them as about you. At the same time, others' perceptions of you form the real basis of your relationships. It is a precious gift to learn from others how they perceive you, for with that information you can begin to improve your relationships and teamwork on a truly solid foundation. Give your emotional responses to the feedback time to evolve and settle down, then begin the process of making sure you understand what others are saying.

What is Feedforward and What to Do with Your Feedforward

Feedforward is the reverse exercise of feedback. It's the process of replacing positive or negative feedback with future-oriented solutions. In simple terms, it means focusing on the future instead of the past. During the upcoming Leadership sessions, you will have an extended opportunity to work with your coach to interpret your feedback and to begin to prioritize improvements you want to make.

At the end of the sessions, you will have dedicated time to factor these priorities into other session learnings to set a few focused, high-leverage goals and begin to think about how you will pursue those goals.

After the sessions, you should work with your coach to work on that pursuit.

You are encouraged to communicate further with your respondents, both to clarify the meaning of the feedback they have given you and to solicit their support on your self-development journey. Even when people have not self-identified, you can conduct general conversations in which you share what you've learned and seek their further feedforward.

Decision Making

Defintion:

Competence in decision making is the ability to confidently and decisively decide on a course of action after critically analyzing information, parameters and constraints. Informed decisions come from gathering information and viewing the choice from different perspectives. High quality decision making requires flexibility and openness as well as a careful evaluation of the costs and benefits.

Why it is important:

Decision making is a critical skill that affects every aspect of business operations and directly impacts success or failure. Decision making determines the strategic goals and allocation of resources.

Competent decision makers can critically analyze a situation and address problems promptly to prevent them from escalating. In times of crisis, the ability to make quick, informed decisions is essential to mitigate risks and navigate through challenging situations.

Attitude

Defintion:

Attitude is the mindset and behavioral approach individuals bring to the workplace, reflecting optimism, emotional steadiness, and sincere concern for others through respectful, gracious, and approachable interactions. It is expressed through traits such as excellence, accountability, humility, and pride—manifested in volunteerism, flexibility, risk-taking, and a commitment to helping others. A strong attitude fosters growth by embracing feedback, learning from mistakes, and honoring others' time, while cultivating trust, enthusiasm, and psychological safety. Ultimately, it sets the tone for a culture of collaboration and continuous improvement, where confidence, resilience, and care for both people and outcomes define every interaction.

Why it is important:

Attitude, as defined through those rich dimensions, plays a foundational role in shaping an organization's culture, employee engagement, and overall effectiveness. When individuals demonstrate respect, optimism, humility, resilience, and a genuine concern for others, it fosters psychological safety--allowing teams to collaborate with trust and creativity rather than fear or defensiveness. These traits not only drive performance and innovation, but they also signal a shared commitment to excellence, continuous learning, and collective success. Ultimately, the presence of strong attitudes across an organization elevates morale, strengthens relationships, and creates an environment where both people and results can flourish together.
