Introduction

What you will find in this report

This report contains the results of the 360-degree feedback collected from a combination of yourself, management, and peers. These results are presented in a variety of formats to help you identify your strengths, areas for development, and areas where your ratings may diverge from those of the individuals providing you feedback. Please recognize the time and effort your respondents put into providing you with this feedback, be open to their opinions, and be willing to use their feedback as a starting point for your learning and development.

Goals of the 360 Degree Feedback

1. Increased mindfulness
2. Greater awareness of the leadership and management competencies the company is seeking to develop
3. Greater clarity about strengths to build on and areas to improve
4. Improved goal-setting for personal and professional development
5. More frequent and open communication between yourself and others about what is working well and what needs to be improved
6. Increased comfort with seeking and receiving feedback
7. Increased comfort with giving feedback

Receiving Feedback

Hearing from others how they perceive you is challenging for everyone, especially if their perceptions are different from your own. Remember that their feedback is as much about them as about you. At the same time, others' perceptions of you form the real basis of your relationships. It is a precious gift to learn from others how they perceive you, for with that information you can begin to improve your relationships and teamwork on a truly solid foundation. Give your emotional responses to the feedback time to evolve and settle down, then begin the process of making sure you understand what others are saying.

What is Feedforward and What to Do with Your Feedforward

Feedforward is the reverse exercise of feedback. It's the process of replacing positive or negative feedback with future-oriented solutions. In simple terms, it means focusing on the future instead of the past. During the upcoming Leadership sessions, you will have an extended opportunity to work with your coach to interpret your feedback and to begin to prioritize improvements you want to make.

At the end of the sessions, you will have dedicated time to factor these priorities into other session learnings to set a few focused, high-leverage goals and begin to think about how you will pursue those goals.

After the sessions, you should work with your coach to work on that pursuit.

You are encouraged to communicate further with your respondents, both to clarify the meaning of the feedback they have given you and to solicit their support on your self-development journey. Even when people have not self-identified, you can conduct general conversations in which you share what you've learned and seek their further feedforward.

Summary

The questionnaire items used in this feedback process asked respondents to rate 5 competencies of leadership and management. Summary scores for each item were calculated by averaging the scores of all your respondents to that item. Your scores for the items in each competency are shown in the bar graph below, with the highest-scored competencies at the top. Your competencies that received the lowest scores appear at the bottom of the graph.

Scores by Competency

Partnering/Networking
Adaptability
Delegation
Vision
Cultural Awareness

Relationship	Headcount
Self	1
Supervisor	1
Peers	5
Direct Reports	6

The results in this report are based on responses collected from individuals in different roles. This table shows the number of responses from individuals in different roles.

These different roles provide different perspectives on your behaviors, competencies, and attributes. And, of course, the perspectives of individuals in each role may be unique.

Gap Analysis

The following table graphically displays the "Gap," or difference between your average rating on each competency (labeled "Self") and the average score of all other respondents (labeled "Others") who provided you with feedback. This can help you identify blind spots, or areas where you were rated more favorably by other respondents than by yourself. The Gaps for these competencies are colored in shades of green. Conversely, the graph can also help you identify your opportunities for improvement, or areas where you rated yourself higher than others did. The Gaps for these dimensions are colored in shades of red. The darker the shade of green or red, the larger the Gap. Finally, if a dimension's Gap is not shaded with a specific color, it indicates an area of agreement between yourself and others.

Vision

Definition:

Vision is the ability to craft and communicate a compelling, aspirational direction that aligns people, strategy, and culture toward a shared future. It integrates foresight and problem identification to anticipate challenges, while translating long-term goals into actionable plans through both personal execution and team empowerment. Visionary leaders inspire and influence others by modeling consistency, celebrating progress, and fostering a growth-oriented environment that reflects organizational values. Through strategic clarity and motivational leadership, vision becomes a unifying force that drives innovation, alignment, and sustained performance.

Why it is important:

Vision, as defined through its multifaceted dimensions, is essential because it provides organizations with a coherent and compelling sense of direction that integrates strategy, culture, and execution. It aligns individuals and teams around shared long-term goals, enabling consistent decision-making even amid complexity or change. By inspiring commitment, fostering growth, and translating ambition into actionable plans, vision becomes the engine that drives innovation, resilience, and sustained performance. Without it, organizations risk fragmentation, short-termism, and a loss of purpose--making vision not just a leadership trait, but a strategic necessity.

Statements for Level:

You ensure that work is systematically aligned and coordinated with the organization's vision.; You turn the department's vision into defined objectives and a strategic framework.; I articulate the vision in a way that resonates with diverse stakeholders, adapting language to audience needs.; You influence the attitudes and behaviors of subordinates to match the department's vision.; I use consistent language and metaphors when describing the department's purpose and direction.

Delegation

Defintion:

Delegation is the process by which a manager strategically assigns tasks by defining roles, identifying responsibilities, and selecting the right individuals based on their skills, expertise, and interests, ensuring that work aligns with business goals and fosters both productivity and engagement. Effective delegation involves clear communication, empowerment, and a balance between autonomy and supervision, allowing employees to take ownership while receiving the necessary support, resources, and guidance to succeed. Additionally, strong delegation promotes fair work distribution, career growth, and accountability, ensuring that assignments contribute to both employee development and organizational success while continuously assessing and refining delegation strategies for optimal outcomes.

Why it is important:

Delegation is essential for organizations and companies because it optimizes efficiency, enhances employee engagement, and strengthens leadership. By strategically assigning tasks based on skills, expertise, and growth opportunities, companies ensure that work is distributed fairly and effectively, leading to higher productivity and better resource management. Additionally, empowering employees through autonomy and accountability fosters a culture of trust, innovation, and professional development, which improves morale, reduces burnout, and encourages long-term retention. When done correctly, delegation aligns individual strengths with business goals, driving sustainable success while allowing leaders to focus on higher-level strategy and vision.

Partnering/Networking

Defintion:

Partnering/Networking is the strategic process of building alliances, expanding professional networks, and forming meaningful relationships to create opportunities and drive collaborative success. It involves aligning resources, exchanging information, fostering mutual learning, and engaging in cross-functional activities to streamline workflow while maintaining trust, commitment, and clear communication. Through effective collaboration, organizations and individuals establish common ground, define agreements, resolve conflicts, and ensure oversight in partnerships that maximize shared strengths and industry impact.

Why it is important:

Partnering/Networking is essential for organizations and companies because it fosters collaboration, drives innovation, and enhances strategic opportunities. By building alliances, expanding professional networks, and forming meaningful relationships, businesses can access new markets, share resources, and exchange valuable industry knowledge. These connections enable organizations to strengthen their competitive edge, optimize workflow efficiency, and ensure trust and commitment in long-term partnerships.

Additionally, effective partnering and networking promote adaptability and resilience by aligning interests, resolving conflicts, and facilitating agreements that support mutual success. Strong partnerships create an ecosystem where organizations can leverage complementary strengths, exchange information, and navigate complex challenges with greater agility. Through continuous engagement with industry leaders, professional associations, and cross-functional teams, companies can anticipate trends, refine strategies, and remain at the forefront of their industries.

Ultimately, organizations thrive when they cultivate relationships built on transparency, mutual learning, and shared goals. Networking unlocks new business opportunities, enhances operational efficiency, and reinforces a culture of strategic collaboration. By embracing partnering and networking as a core function, companies position themselves for sustainable growth, innovation, and long-term success in a rapidly evolving business landscape.
